Introduction

"A man who dares to waste one hour of time has not discovered the value of life." - Charles Darwin

The name Charles Darwin immediately conjures the vision of the human race descending from the apes. Darwin is widely and erroneously believed to be the first to propose this theory of evolution, bringing to mind the ongoing debates between those who accept his presentation of evolution via natural selection and those who believe in a creation as described in the Book of Genesis. What is less known is that at the time of Darwin's birth most church authorities had determined the stories related in Genesis to be allegorical rather than a literal description of the Earth's creation in seven days...
